PLAYGROUNDS AND BEACHES TO BE OPENED; SUPERVISORS HERE

The four playgrounds at the Jefferson, Washington, Adams and Webster schools, and the two swimming beaches will be officially opened Monday morning, H. H. Faust, city superintendent of schools, announced this morning.

Competent and experienced supervisors have been secured to take charge of the work. They with Mr. Faust, will meet early Monday morning to map out a program of activities for the season. The janitors of the four schools are putting up the apparatus so that everything will be in order. Mr. Faust, chairman of the playground committee, said this morning that the committee in charge of the playground work, W. J. Hemminger and E. J. Haumerson, had hoped to have the playgrounds open to the public the day after school, but the arrangements could not be made with the supervisors as most of them were attending colleges or universities which were in session until this morning.

G. Heilmann, La Crosse, will be the general supervisor. He has just been discharged from the army. From his enlistment he was at the head of the department of physical education at the La Crosse normal for four years. He with his family arrived in the city today. Miss Catherine Foster, who was a member of the high school faculty for the past year, has also been secured for one of the playgrounds. She received her physical training at Battle Creek, Mich.

The program of the work will be announced Monday.

EVEN HONEY-MAKERS HAVE TO WATCH LAW

Madison, June 21.—Even the ancient and peaceful occupation of keeping bees and gathering honey has come under the eye of the law in Wisconsin and must regard restrictive regulations because of foul brood and other diseases destructive to the bees are abroad in the land. The State Beekeepers' association, in order to lessen the evil of the diseases and to eradicate them if possible, has secured the enactment of an amendment to the bee law. The law forbids the selling or offering for sale, or the removal, transportation or shipment of any apiary, bees, combs, or used bee-keeping appliances without a permit from the department of agriculture. It can any of these things be shipped into Wisconsin unless they bear a certificate showing that they have been inspected and that they are free from infection. ## Gilded Youths of Eton Take Selves Seriously

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.]—London, June 21.—That part of the gilded youth of England which is in process of getting a certified Eton mark of education is taking itself and its dress seriously.

Result: Fancy waistcoats, silk scarfs and fur gloves are taboo, official order of the economy committee.

Eton is trying to raise itself in the eyes of the world, says the college magazine.

The visioned statement of the crack school see a new era coming in the world, and they would keep pace.

Remember this: the school magazine warns "that through dire necessity, changes may be wrought in the not far distant future far greater than anything that could be effected by the economy committee."

English Newly Weds SCORE MARRIAGE TAX.—London.—The newlyweds of England are uniting in a protest against the marriage tax which exists despite the fact that few people realize it. If single men earn $145 from dividends or a single woman earns the same amount they pay no income tax, but if they marry and live in the same house they are immediately compelled to pay a tax of $4.75. While the officials admit the injustice of the system they also declare that it cannot be remedied unless a new provision is made in the next budget.

Vet's Surprise to Folks Fails; They Had Moved
[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.]—Lincoln, Ill., June 21.—Private Ernest Schenk returned home from France to find himself almost an outcast. He came in the stillness of the night. It was to be a glorious surprise, as he had preceded his arrival with no word.

At 2 o'clock in the morning Ernest tapped at the door of the Paronski home. No response. He pounded. "Get away from there," bawled an angry voice from above. "It's Ernest! Let me in," remonstrated the over-zealous youth. Bang! went the window and Ernest didn't get in. Another family had moved into the Paronski home during Ernest's absence. But a happy thought struck him. The family grocer would know where the Paronskis lived. He applied and they directed him to the new Paronski home. "Get in," he mumbled when the folks let him in.

TROUBLES TO KEEP LEGISLATORS BUSY UNTIL JULY 3

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]—Madison, June 21.—It is doubtful if the coming week will clean up all of the calendar work of the legislature. The indications are that the actual work of the session cannot be completed before July 3 and that final adjournment will not be reached before July 15.

The committee of conference on the marketing bill is making progress. The house has refused to accept the senate bill and the senate has refused to accept the house bill. A committee composed of Senators Skogmo, Kuckuk and Bilgrien and Assemblyman Coe, Best and J. C. Hanson are considering the controverted points. It was unofficially announced by committee members Saturday that the senate conferees had agreed to accept one point urged by the assembly members, that the bill shall contain a clause directing the gathering of information that will show the cost of producing farm products. If the conference is able to work out a bill it will probably not be ready for consideration until Wednesday. It will then have to go through both houses of the legislature.

There are other troublesome problems in the legislature. Tuesday the senate will take up the foreign language question. The bill before the senate as now amended provides that the English language shall be taught in all schools, public, private and parochial. The measure declares, however, that nothing contained in the bill shall be interpreted to interfere with religious instruction in any language. When the bill was before the senate there were indications that the upper house would approve the measure. If it should, there may be an interesting contest in the lower house, as that body has taken the position that there should be no legislation on the language question.

Enforcement measures are on the senate calendar for consideration Wednesday. The Mulberger substitute provides for the sale of beer containing less than 2.75 percent of alcohol. The senate is almost evenly divided on the subject and it is claimed that the measure will be settled by one vote. One senator has not yet disclosed his position, although the dyes are claiming him against the Mulberger amendment. It is probable that an enforcement measure will be passed. If it contains a provision for 2.75 percent of beer, it will be a prolonged debate in the house.

Consideration of the Arnold income tax bill comes up again Wednesday in the house. The measure will again be the subject of the controversy over this measure for the session will then be ended. The soldier bonus bill comes up in the senate for action Tuesday. In the senate for action Tuesday. In the senate for action Tuesday. In the senate for action Tuesday.

Pythian Sisters to Meet.—Sheboygan, June 18.—The twenty-fourth annual convention of the Grand Temple of Pythian Sisters of Wisconsin will be held in this city June 16, 17 and 18. It will be the first time Sheboygan will entertain the Sisters and elaborate plans, with many entertainments, have been made. The supreme chief, Mrs. Elizabeth Hinchinson, Woodstock, Mo., will be a guest during the three days' session. Mrs. Louis C. Meyer, Sheboygan, is grand chief of the Wisconsin Sisters, will preside at all sessions of the convention. There are 34 temples in the state and more than a hundred delegates are expected. The largest representation is expected from Milwaukee and Racine.

PEACE—and WAR

While the trend of German sentiment is declared to be continuing strongly in favor of signing the peace treaty, it is becoming apparent the Germans do not intend to make their attitude officially known without an effort to obtain modifications in the terms.

They wish to know definitely what they are signing and have asked the peace conferees if the terms of Premier Clemenceau's covering note as agreed preparations and other phases of the treaty may be considered as a part of the document itself and binding on all parties.

In addition, they are reported to have asked the conference if the allies would agree to admit Germany immediately to the League of Nations, consent to limit Germany's indemnity to 100,000,000,000 gold marks and strike out the requirement for the surrender of the former German empire.

The German cabinet situation is still a mixed one. It is definitely known that the Scheidemann cabinet has resigned. The advice seems to indicate that President Ebert will retire office at least for the time being. Mathias Erzberger, head of the German armistice commission, seems sure of a place in the government, probably as "minister of reconstruction" and fulfillment of the treaty, and he is pointed to as the likely head of the new German peace delegation.

Following Herr Muller's failure to form a cabinet, Dr. Eduard David, former president of the national assembly, has been asked to assume the task. It seems probable that the ministerial crisis caused by the news of the signing of the peace treaty will result in a request from Germany for an extension of time beyond Monday for reaching a final decision. Dispatches from Paris would appear to indicate that under the circumstances such a request would be favorably received.

Francesco Nitti, former Italian minister of finance, who resigned from office last January because of a disagreement with Premier Orlando over the latter's foreign policy, has been asked to form the new Italian cabinet. It is semi-officially announced. Signor Nitti is supposed to favor a compromise with the Jugo-Slavs in reference to conflicting claims to territory on the eastern coast of the Adriatic. During the last year of the war he was looked upon with some concern by France, it was reported at the time, because of his intimations that Italy might be forced to withdraw from the war by reason of the failure of the allies to come to her assistance.

Varsity Enrollment Largest on Record

Madison, June 21.—A total of 5,277 students, including 3,421 men and 1,856 women, have been enrolled in the University of Wisconsin during the year 1918-19, according to the new catalog now in press. This is larger by 257 students, than the record of any preceding year, but is swelled by 1,101 S. A. T. C. men who were enrolled during the fall term and dropped out in December.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

Written by Mrs. Louise Ford.

Henry W. Longfellow and Oliver W. Holmes were great friends, enjoying a joke at the other's expense. Holmes who was an admirer of chickens, suggested a visit to a chicken show, then being held in Boston. While walking up the aisle they came to a poster tacked to the wall, of a big rooster, with many small biddies at his feet. Longfellow said to Holmes:

"What does a rooster say when talking to chickens?"

"You ought to know."

Presently Holmes told Longfellow to go along, as he had to go back for something he had forgotten. Returning he took down the rooster and without one change wrote the following parody on "The Psalm of Life," at the top of the poster. Returning he asked Longfellow to come back as he wished to show him something.

"This is what the rooster said to the chickens:

"Life is real, life is earnest,
 And the shell is not its pen;
 Egg thou art, and egg remainest,
 Was not spoken of the hen.

"Art is long and Time is fleeting,
 Be our bills then sharpened well,
 And not like muffled drums beating
 On the inside of the shell.

"For the world's field of battle,
 In the great barnyard of life,
 Be not like those lazy cattle,
 Be a rooster in the strife.

"Lives of roosters all remind us
 We can make our lives sublime,
 And when roasted leave behind us
 Hen tracks on the sands of time.

"Hen tracks that perhaps another,
 Chicken drooping in the rain,
 Some forlorn and hen-pecked brother
 When he sees, shall crow again."

Some of Longfellow's admirers resented this parody, but he treated it as a compliment. He thought one couplet excelled the original poem, as so many men lived their lives, like

"Muffled drums beating
 On the inside of the shell."

Longfellow certainly would have thought that there were no men or women of this town living on the inside of the shell, for everyone was "Up and doing" to make a better Janesville.

Starting from Vermont,—all their household goods in a covered wagon drawn by two horses, there arrived a man and wife to make a home in this unknown country. The broad prairies covered with grass and flowers, the beautiful river and the grand old trees at once appealed to their love of the beautiful and after mountainous Vermont, they thought they had reached the promised land. Being a good carpenter, a little home was soon built on Main street, but alas, there was no flooring to be had nearer than Beloit—so for a time the ground had to be the floor until boards were brought. The little cabin of Mrs. Janes had given place to a public house. As soon as it was completed a dance was suggested as the best way to celebrate. This woman had the honor of leading the first cotillion in Janesville, as her husband did not indulge, she danced with a bachelor. It was a time to be remembered by those early settlers who had so few pleasures.

This couple did their bit for the growth of the future city. For many years he built many of the houses, and when life's span was almost over and they knew it was time to prepare for the going to a new home, they divided equally their hard earned dollars, each one to do as they pleased with their share. Jointly they left a memorial to the Congregational church, in a parsonage. They had never been interested in suffrage, but were just and honest. Even if only hen tracks, they were honest ones.

Now the trails had become roads and a trolley-coach, drawn by six horses, the driver with a long whip, which he delighted to flourish, and a big horn to announce his arrival, was the leading event of the day creating more excitement than did the airplane the other day. About this time a dear mother opened her heart and home to the little children, that there might be a school. The keynote of this little school was the homelike charm. Many of the future men and women learned their A B C's also the honest manhood and womanhood to the influence of this good mother teacher, for her work extended over many years. Memories of her loving kindness are still cherished. Dear old Trinity is remembered as one of the great events and was hailed with gladness. With the kindly ministering of the Rector, who had made such a sacrifice of home ties for both himself and family, we could at last attend church. He was for years the beloved pastor of Trinity. His large family remained as good citizens, always adding to the growth of a bigger and better Janesville during long lives. Honor to their memories.

Now we have a newspaper that connects us with the outside world, a church, a school—just watch us grow.

It did seem quite strange that the knowledge of so small a town should have gone abroad, so that nearly every day the stage brought a new resident. They came from New England, from New York, and all along the way. Men and women of education and accustomed to the luxuries of cities. As the years passed they came, shared the hardships cheerfully and added much to the growth and beauty of the home town. The little social affairs were always hailed by the whole town as they were community joys. Our one time bachelor and the belle of the village had decided to take each other for "better or worse," so another home was built—that for years was one of the most delightful of the many. They were spared to shed good cheer until their one time little town had grown up, even crowding the old home, but they held patiently to the time honored homestead with its loved memories.

In the earliest times the settlers were obliged for convenience, to resort to strange methods of accomplishing their work. Not having any wells or cisterns, it was not an unusual sight to see the good housewives carrying their laundry to the river bank on Mondays, where a large iron kettle was used in common for a boiler. One of the good mothers cared not only for her own children, but two who had lost their own mother, found her ever helpful. For many years she lived to enrich the lives of children and friends; she never lost an opportunity of doing a kind act, or of obliging others in those small things of daily life which are so pleasing and so valuable. Long after the early washing episode, her husband invented and manufactured a washing machine that gave a name to the town as a manufacturing center. Wonder if the seed was planted in those hard early days when Janesville was young?

Sketches From Life -- By Temple

"And in the Eighth He Smashed Out a Three-Bagger"

Now it was noticed that the passing years had made the little town ambitious. It was due to one man's energy, that all at once we passed from darkness into the bright light. It seemed like magic to have the streets lighted and the homes bright with gas. No more smoky kerosene lamps for the good housewife to spend hours cleaning and filling. No one of the present day can realize what it meant or estimate the blessing. And a good man, honest and true, had cast his fortunes and family's also with the home town. I recall seeing him standing beside a trench always whittling a stick while in deep thought, and now and then passing a joke to the workmen. His hand and heart was ever extended to aid the distressed. A beautiful home and business block attest to the interest taken in the growth and beauty of his home town; ever loyal, generous and kindly, his memory is pleasant to dwell upon to all those who had the honor of knowing him. It is such men that builded even better than they knew, whose deeds live after they have passed away.

For many, many years a well known figure could be seen on our streets, active in politics, souave and agreeable in social life, active in business; for the men said, "he made good beer", and had built a large brewery on the beautiful river and a home on the hill. There was generally a good story circulating at his expense. Tender hearted to any needing a helping hand. One night a call came for help to fight fire in the home of a widow. Mr. — was first to answer the call and with others, to aid the little home was rescued, meantime Mr. — had taken the pictures to his own home nearby for safety.

Next morning his wife going into the dining room was surprised to see the picture of Abraham Lincoln, as Mr. — was a southern sympathizer and aired his views of the war and president on all occasions. Mrs. — thought it too good a joke to let pass, so hung the picture in full view of the door and waited. Soon that strong vocabulary was in full blast, as soon as there was a lull, she said, "You brought the picture home last night and thinking you had had a change of heart, I hung the beloved face where we could see it."

As soon as there was calm, he begged that it be kept a secret from the boys as he would not be able to go down town, should they hear of it. But like all secrets, it did become known and Mr. — did not show himself for two weeks, but had very turgent business where he could not be found.

During his life he kept things lively and certainly could not be accused of being

"Like muffled drums beating
 on the inside of the shell."

People just people.

DEATHS EXCEED BIRTHS IN ENGLAND AND WALES

London, June 21.—For the first time in the history of England and Wales since records have been kept deaths exceed births in the quarter just ended. While the total number of births was 181,775 the deaths numbered 241,218, making a decrease in the population of 79,443.

Forty-one percent of the deaths were due to influenza. During the whole year of 1918 the birth rate also was the lowest on record, the average increase for each year during the five preceding years was 287,664, but in 1918 the natural increase by excess of births was only 50,782.

One in Seven

Is your chance of reaching the top of this pole. No doubt you would rather be excused from attempting to climb it. The rush is too great. One out of every seven persons meets death through an accident. Has it ever occurred to you that the shadow of death is forever stalking behind every footstep you take? It may be a street car, auto or one of many other ways in which accidents happen. Can you afford to continue to take these chances daily without a thought to the protection of yourself and those dependent on you?

At a cost of 5c a day, we issue a policy covering sickness, accident and death, paying $60 to $120 monthly benefits. Isn't it foolish to postpone this important matter, when the cost of protection is so cheap?

STAFFORD-CALORIC COMPANY DESTINED TO BE BIG INDUSTRY

That the Stafford-Caloric company will soon be one of Janesville's foremost industries is evident from the rapid strides that have been made in increasing production during the first month of operation. Since the E. H. Stafford company took possession of the old Caloric factory, May 1, production has been more than doubled and the number of employees has been increased from 40 to 75 today, according to R. H. Stafford who is in complete charge of the plant.

Although for the immediate future no additional departments are planned, the company may eventually be the manufacturer of complete phonographs to be wholesaled to jobbers throughout the middle west. The program for the present will be one of vast increase in production of the Caloric flutes, covers and phonograph cabinets. The "Help Wanted" sign has been hung out at the factory and new people are being put to work daily.

"We have improved the quality of our output since taking hold of the plant a month ago, so that there is no comparison between the cookers and cabinets of last year and today," said Mr. Stafford today. "We are more than pleased with conditions in Janesville and find a spirit of willingness of cooperation among all of our employees. The future gives promise of big things in this plant."

Production here is in charge of Otto Marx, an expert in woodworking, who has just arrived from Chicago. Superintendent Marx is pleased with the lay-out of the plant and with the cooperative spirit of the workers.

The Stafford-Caloric company is the best known furniture industries in the country. It has been in operation for 35 years. Plants are operated in Ionia, Mich., Jackson, Ill., and Chicago, Ill. The company has general offices at 200 South Wabash avenue, Chicago.

There is hardly a city in the country where Stafford products are not used and known. The company manufactures school, church, theater, lodge, and office furniture. Shipments are made to all parts of the country and a large export trade to South America, Central America, Cuba and the Hawaiian Islands is being developed.

EASTERN STATES PROTEST BARTERING

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Weimar, June 20.—General Groener, former Prussian war minister and successor to Field Marshal Von Hindenburg as chief of the general staff, arrived here yesterday and conferred with the cabinet about the Polish situation and the eastern front.

He reported that West Prussia, East Prussia, and Silesia have determined to form an independent state free country and Germany. If any portions of those states are allowed to go to Poland, he said the inhabitants of the three states are bitter at Germany, claiming that they had "deserted" them and swapped and bartered away portions of those states for the sake of others.

The government says it cannot see where any bartering enters into the situation, since it got nothing in return in dealing with the allies. Fighting with the Poles is said to be certain, forces of the independent state free country and Germany are said to be fighting, being the participants.

CITY PLANNING

BY THE MAN IN THE STREET
Committee on City Planning,
Boston Chamber of Commerce.

If the man in the street were to speak his mind about city planning he would say:

"I want the city planned for me and mine, and for all men, women and children, so that life shall be better and safer, employment more certain and secure, and the rewards of labor freed from unnecessary waste and toil."

"I can understand a well planned, highly perfected machine because I have to use such machines in earning my daily bread. My watch is such a machine and I know it as an accurate mechanism it is, wasting not a fraction of a second in keeping me adjusted to my hours of labor and the affairs of my wife and children. I believe that with the help of engineers and of science, our city can be perfected to the end that all of its citizens shall be freed of the burden of unnecessary waste, loss of health, life and opportunity."

Expects Perfect City.
"It seems to me a perfect city is not too much to expect in these wonderful days, and that it would bring great activity in business, and help to promote peace and good order."

"I know from my own observation that a great saving is to be made by the use of the best possible harbors, transportation, terminals, warehouses, streets for teaming, well-planned thoroughfares, and residential sections."

"I know also it would help those who labor for wages if there were well-planned factory and housing systems, enough playgrounds, parks, churches, schools, and school houses, better and more places of amusement properly supervised."

"All these things the workman sees that he must demand, but knows no reason that he can not get them merely by having his wages increased, even though he received all the profits of the industry in which he works. These are no ordinary jobs and must be gained by the whole community working, planning and pulling together."

Would Have Fun Building Up.
"I know also that the city would be made by the best engineers and landscape architects, showing just exactly how my city would look when properly planned and perfected. I would like to work for it, even if it took 10 or 25 years to get all the things finished. We would all get some things we want tomorrow or next month, and others we would have the fun and joy of helping to get them."

"I am certain this kind of work would cut down the cost of living, would stop strikes, failures, loss of life, and children going to the bad. It doesn't take a particularly wise man to see also, that every penny payer would get his money's worth, and that the city would be cleaner, brighter, waste and graft. Also, I see that if it costs more for my grocery to do business than it ought to, on account of these things, I must pay higher prices for my groceries. My clothes will cost more, my coal for the fire, everything I use in the house, because the city is badly planned, and costs too much for upkeep. The bill comes to me and you can't but have to pay every penny of my share."

Has Confidence in Men.
"Now I have confidence enough in the honest men of my city and in the committees of many organizations, all pulling together, this work of planning the city as it ought to be could be done honestly and, little by little, without running too far into debt."

"I know that I and thousands like me would be glad to put a few dollars of our savings into the loans to carry this work along if given the chance. Let me tell you I am not so much of a dreamer as you might think. I am an undertaker would work lively for carpenters, masons, painters, plumbers, and all other artisans and men of the skilled workers who prosper when there is a live spirit of growth in a city, and business is good with manufacturers and merchants."

"Why wouldn't it make good times for bankers and financial men, with a demand for money to make improvements?"
"You can't see that it would do anything but help honest real estate interests."

The newspapers would boost the work along, for a growing city would help them to get more advertising. The preachers might cheer up and not get so discouraged, for it would help their work at the bottom, by preventing so many good going bad and they would have less trouble patching up a town that they now reach, who have gone wrong."

"Now it seems to me there would be a way of figuring out all these things, and finding out the cost and the best way to make improvements, by tested standards, just as we do in our shop. If you go about it that way and find what cities have done along the best lines all over the world, where is the risk? Only the rotten and crooked would get wiped out."

Shows Me Plan to Make This a Perfect City.
"Show me your plan to make this a perfect city, and when election time comes around, I'll feel at least I have got something worth working for. If you put it on the ticket in a few words and give me a chance at it."

AVIATOR ENGAGED TO STAGE FLYING STUNTS AT JANESVILLE FAIR

Thousands of visitors at the Janesville fair, September 1-4 will see a series of thrilling airplane flights that will doubtless surpass anything ever before seen in the city.

At a special meeting of the directors of the fair in Dr. Wayne A. Munn's office last evening it was voted to secure Lieut. Ralph Diggins, English aviator with over two years experience, flying above the French battlefields, to stage flights here throughout the four days of the fair. Lieut. Diggins will perform every stunt that it is possible to do with an airplane. He is a fearless flyer, well versed in the game, and capable of furnishing a number of thrills. For long time he was attached to the Royal Flying corps of Great Britain, later becoming connected with the American aviation section overseas.

As another feature of the air program he has agreed to carry passengers in some of his less dangerous flights. No doubt a number of local people will avail themselves of the opportunity of riding in a plane for the first time.

His flights will be the feature of the free attractions of the fair. Two groups of performers were engaged last night to put on two acts each day for the four days. Feats of equilibrium featuring the balancing act of 12 to 15 which the improved stage in front of the grand stand.

INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS PRINCIPLES ENDORSED

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.]
Washington, June 21.—Twelve principles of industrial relations have been endorsed by American employers and workers in the membership of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

A referendum vote announced today showed the proposal for a national employment system has been the only article of 13 which failed to receive the two-thirds majority.

Underlying the cardinal principle that "the public interest requires adjustment of industrial relations by the use of fair methods" were those declaring "the right of workers to organize," that "industrial harmony and prosperity will be most effectively promoted by the adoption of representation of the parties in interest" and that industrial relations agreements should be "faithfully observed." Other declarations approving the use of wages "reduced only when the possibility of reduction of costs in all other directions has been exhausted; that every man is entitled to an opportunity to earn a living wage, and that wages should be adjusted with due regard to their purchasing power."

Fixing of a basic day as a "device for increasing compensation" was held to be a "subterfuge that should be condemned."

CHICAGO SEARCHES FOR ALLEGED MURDERER

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.]
Chicago, June 21.—A gray-haired, ruddy faced man with a pronounced English accent is being sought by the police today, who are trying to solve the mystery that surrounds the death of Mrs. Anna Wells Pocock, a wealthy widow. Mrs. Pocock's body was found in a room in a Chicago hotel.

The man sought by the police registered at the hotel Thursday night with Mrs. Pocock, who he designated as his wife. He signed the name of J. S. McIntren, Baldwin, Iowa, on the hotel register. He has not been seen since a girl boy showed the couple to their room.

The cause of Mrs. Pocock's death has not been determined, although the police hold strongly to the belief that she was murdered.

Mrs. Pocock came here several years ago from Massillon, Ohio.

Resume of Moving Picture Programs of Last Week

(By MRS. ABLE HELMS.)

A graduation of West Point cadets was an interesting feature of a news reel of a local theater, and pictures taken in an airplane over the Panama canal was another. A parade of base ball teams helping a parade of base ball Scout movement in a large city, and an educational film showing the whole process of manufacturing a tractor, were others of helpful interest.

The picture, "Our Teddy," which was on the first part of the week at the Apollo, while being educational and instructive in every way, was also very enjoyable. It took up the life of Roosevelt in various periods of his first; first as a small boy in his home, full of mischief, and with near-sighted vision for catching his favorite bird; then his family discovered his defect and fitted him out with glasses so he could see properly. Then the period of his life when about 15 years old and just getting ready for college was shown, and later when police commissioner in New York city he gained the respect of policemen and politicians alike when he cleaned up the city events of San Juan Hill were pictured, and later events when he became vice president after McKinley's death. The closing film showed him in his later campaigns talking from trains and addressing public meetings. Pictures of his four boys in active service in the recent war closed the program.

Wonderful scenery of the great northwest was shown in a later picture, "The Court of the Yukon," which was a typical showing of life in Alaska's wild vastness of snows, dances, a mining town springing up in a day, a terrific fight over a girl, and a remarkable characterization of a French Canadian, were features of interest.

May Allison as an usher in a theater in a unique but charming character study and she makes the most of her opportunities in "Castles in the Air," seen at the Beverly Sunday and Monday. While beloved by the theater, she is enamored by a titled gentleman who comes constantly to the theater. She finds out later that he is looking for a wife who disappeared, and she is enabled to help the couple to be reunited. Then she hunts up the long suffering manager who has nearly caught his death cold watching over her welfare.

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

It is getting to be a common thing nowadays for a woman to prove that having a husband, children and household cares is no drawback to having a career also. But it was not quite such an easy thing to prove, say 20 years ago. There is one little woman who lives in Little Rock, Arkansas, who did it.

Mrs. Bernice Babcock is the woman. She is one of the plain women whose life has been made up largely of the every day duties known to mothers and home-makers the world around. She was born in the small town of Unionville, Ohio, and after finishing school in a country village she entered college at the age of 17, paying much of her own way through. She worked toward her dreamed of career for a year and then she married and started a very different sort of life from the one she had planned. At the age of 29 she found herself a widow with five little children to care for.

It was then she had to combine

Mary Pickford in "Daddy Long Legs" who will be seen soon at Apollo theatre in a screen version of Jean Webster's beautiful story, "Daddy Long Legs," said to be the best picture little Mary has ever been seen in.

of them with the popular appeal of the Lincoln love story, "The Soul of Anne Rutledge."

A great admirer of Lincoln, Mrs. Babcock read much pertaining to his life. In this reading she found frequent references to a love affair, but all search for any adequate story of this love affair proved a failure. She then determined to dig up the story in such scattered bits as need be, to the end of making the soul of the lovely young woman who was Abraham Lincoln's sweetheart, live once more so that those who know and revere Abraham Lincoln might also know her and revere the woman of his master passion. That the work of the months involved in writing the book was not wasted is told by the success of the story.

$30,000 INDIAN RELICS
GIVEN TO MUSEUM

Madison, June 21.—The collection of Indian copper and stone implements, known by Henry P. Hamilton, Two Rivers, one of the largest and best of its kind in the world and valued at more than $30,000 is to be presented to the State Historical museum, Madison, by the donor, and will be on exhibition in the fall. Mr. Hamilton is a vice-president of the Wisconsin Archeological society and is a member of the State Historical society.

The greater part of the collection has been obtained from Manitowoc county, along the seven-mile lake frontage between Two Rivers and Two Creeks, which was formerly the site of Indian villages and is rich in material.

More than 2,000 selected specimens of exquisite Oregon jewel points, made by the Indians of agate, jasper, and similar stones, and the finest example of flint chipping in the world, are the only parts of the collection that were not obtained in Wisconsin. Mr. Hamilton originally had 18,000 specimens in his possession but retained only the finest.

The largest collection of native copper implements in the country, numbering 14,000 pieces, will also be part of the collection.

Mr. Hamilton started collecting Indian implements and ornaments as early as 1884, and his collection is famous all over the world. His gift is considered by the museum authorities as the most important since the museum was first organized in 1854.

Weekly Market Review.
Chicago, June 21.—Big advances in the corn market this week have been largely due to estimates that planting for 1919 shows a sensational drop in the smallest total acreage in the last ten years. Compared with a week ago, prices this morning were $1.00 to $1.25 higher for corn. Oats were up to 1 1/2 cents and provisions unchanged to 20 cents down.

Even before the estimates were out, a giant reduction had been made in the acreage of corn land. In the corn market, had the advantage of widespread belief that the next crop was not going to turn out much, and that there was danger of old stocks becoming prematurely exhausted. Besides, the fact that hog values had jumped to the highest point ever known operated as a further element of strength. Reports that the peace cabinet would sign the peace treaty gave a temporary additional lift to the corn market, but the news was not widely accepted, and the actual signing of the treaty would greatly increase the demand for food.

Oats were governed chiefly by the strength of corn. The bearish effects of an increase in stocks on hand in warehouses here, but recovered more or less on peace talk.

Chicago Grain Review.
Chicago, June 21.—Increased confidence that the peace treaty would be promptly signed, gave fresh strength today to the corn market. Buying was encouraged as a result of a sharp drop in the value of hogs. Realizing that the corn market was being driven out of business, holders of corn began to sell, and a sharp advance. Opening quotations, which ranged from the same as yesterday, to $1.10 to $1.15, and September $1.14 to $1.15, were followed by a general advance and then something of a reaction.

Oats hardened with corn. After opening a shade to 1/2 cent, including September at 69 1/2 to 70 1/2, the market went a little higher before beginning to ease.

Provisions were lifted by peace news and by the advance of hogs and grain. The market was not in demand, but a week-end evening settling of trades led to pronounced new upward movement in trading. Prices closed nervous, 1/2 to 3/4 cent higher, with July 1.82 to 1.83 and September 1.76 to 1.77.

Pieces of Eight

Being the authentic narrative of a treasure discovered in the Bahamas Islands in the year 1802—now first given to the public.

By RICHARD LE GALLIENNE.

"That's true," flashed the lad, momentarily losing his composure. Then, partly regaining it: "Is it necessary to answer that question?"

"Absolutely," answered Charlie, beginning to look really serious.

"Because, if you don't mind . . . well, I'd just as soon tell."

"For that very reason, I want to know. We are out on a more serious business than perhaps you realize, and your answer may mean more to us than you think."

"I'm sorry, but I shall have to insist," replied Charlie, looking very grim.

"All right, then," answered the youth, looking him straight in the eyes. "put me ashore."

"No; I won't do that now, either," declared Charlie, sternly setting his jaw. "I'll put you in irons, rather, and keep you on bread and water—till you answer my questions."

"You will, eh?" retorted the youth, flashing fire from his fine eyes. And as he spoke, quick as thought, he leaped up on to the gunwale and, without hesitation, dived into the great glassy rollers.

But Charlie was quick, too. Like a flash he grabbed one of the boy's ankles, so that the beautiful dive was spoiled; and there was the boy, hanging by an imprisoned leg over the ship's side, a helpless captive—his arms in the water and his leg struggling to get free. But he might as well have struggled against the grip of Hercules.

In another moment Charlie had him hauled aboard again, his eyes full of tears of boyish rage and humiliation.

"You young fool!" exclaimed Charlie. "The water round here is thick."

"You Young Fool!" Exclaimed Charlie, with sharks; you wouldn't have gone fifty yards without one of them getting you."

"Sharks!" gasped out the boy, contemptuously. "I know more about sharks than you do."

"You don't," said Charlie, whose grimness had evidently relaxed a little at the lad's display of mettle. Meanwhile, my temper was beginning to rise on behalf of our young passenger. "I tell you what, Charlie," I interposed: "If you are going to keep this up, you'd better count me out on this trip and set us both ashore at West End. You're making a fool of yourself. The lad's all right."

The boy shot me a warm glance of gratitude.

"All right," agreed Charlie, beginning to lose his temper, too. "I'm damned if I don't." And, his hand on the tiller, he made as if to turn the boat about and tack for the shore.

"No! no!" cried the boy, springing between us and appealingly laying one hand on Charlie's shoulder, the other on mine. "You mustn't let me spoil your trip. I'll compromise. And, skipper, I'll tell your friend here all there is to tell—everything I swear—if you will leave it to his judgment."

"Right-o!" agreed Charlie at last; so our passenger and I thereupon withdrew for our conference.

It was soon over and I couldn't help laughing aloud at the simplicity of it all.

"Just as I told you, Charlie," I exclaimed; "it's innocence itself." Turning to the lad, I said: "Dear boy, there is really no need to keep such a small secret as that from the skipper here. You'll really have to let me tell him."

The boy nodded acquiescence. "All the same, I gave my word," he said.

When I told Charlie the innocent secret, he laughed as I had done, and his usual good humor instantly returned.

The stubbornly held secret had merely amounted to this: Our lad was acquainted with my conchologist, and had paid him a visit the very afternoon I did, had in fact, seen me leaving the house. Answering to the boy's romantic talk of buried treasure and so forth, the shell enthusiast had thought no harm to tell him of our projected trip; and that was the whole of the mysterious matter.

Yet the day was not to end without a little incident which, slight though indeed it was, was momentarily to arouse Charlie's suspicions once more, charming young companion once more.

Presently, in the far south-western points like a row of pins began very faintly to range themselves along the skyline. They were palm trees, though you could not make them out to be such, or anything in particular, till long after. One darker point seemed closer than the rest.

"There's High Cay!" rang out the rich young voice of our passenger, whom we'd half forgotten in our tense scanning of the horizon. Charlie and I both turned to him together in surprise and his face certainly betrayed the confusion of one who has let something slip involuntarily.

"Ho! ho! young man," cried Charlie, his face darkening again. "What do you know about High Cay? I thought this was your first trip."

"So it is," answered the boy, "on the sea."

"What do you mean: 'on the sea?'"

"I mean that I've done it many a time—on the chart. I know every bluff and reef and shoal and cay around Andros from Morgan's Bluff to Washington's Cut."

"You do, eh?"

"On the chart. Why, I've studied charts since I was a kid, and gone every kind of voyage you can think of—playing at buccaneering or whaling, or discovering the north pole. Every kid does that."

"They do, eh?" said Charlie, evidently quite unimpressed. "I never did."

"That's because you've about as much imagination as a turnip in that head of yours," I broke in, in defense of my young Apollo.

"Maybe, if you're so smart," continued Charlie, paying no attention to me; "you can navigate us through the North Bight?"

"Maybe!" answered our youngster pertly, with an odd little smile. He had evidently recovered his nerve, and seemed to take pleasure in piquing Charlie's suspicions.

CHAPTER IV.

In Which We Enter the Wilderness. Andros, as no other of the islands, is surrounded by a ring of reefs stretching all around its coasts. We were inside the breakwater of the reefs and the rolling swell of ocean gave way at once to a millpond calmness. We were at the entrance of North Bight, one of the three bights which, dotted with numerous low-lying cays, breaks up Andros Island in the middle and allows a passage through a maze-like archipelago direct to the northwest end of Cuba. Here on the northwest shore is a small and very lonely settlement—one of the two or three settlements on the else-deserted island—Behring's point.

Here we dropped anchor and Charlie, who had some business ashore, proposed our landing with him; but here again our passenger aroused his suspicions—though Heaven knows why—by preferring to remain aboard.

"Please let me off," he requested in his most top-lofty English accent. "You can see for yourself that there's nothing of interest—nothing but a beastly lot of nigger cabins, and dirty coral rock that will cut your boots to pieces. I'd much rather smoke and wait for you in peace," and, taking out his case and lighting a cigarette, he waved it gently to us as we rowed off.

He had certainly been right about Behring's point—Charlie was absurdly certain that he had known it before, and had some reason for not landing—for a more forlorn and poverty-stricken foothold of humanity could hardly be conceived; a poor little cluster of negro cabins, indeed, scrambling up from the beach, and with no streets but craggy pathways in and out among the gray clinker-like coral.

But it was touching to find even here that, though the whole wretched goods of the community would scarcely have fetched ten dollars, the souls of men were still held worth caring for; for presently we came upon a pretty little church, with a schoolhouse nearby, while from the roof of an adjacent building we were hailed by a pleasant-faced white man, busy with some shuffling.

It was the good priest of the little place, Father Serapion, disguised in overalls and the honest grime of his labor; like a true Benedictine, praying with his strong and skillful hands.

Father Serapion and Charlie were old friends, and Charlie took occasion to confide in him with regard to Tobias, and, to his huge delight, discovered that a man answering very closely to his description had dropped in there with a large spinger two days before. He had only stepped long enough to buy rum at the little store near the landing and had been off again—ugh the night, sailing west.

Father Serapion, who knew Charlie Webster's shooting ground, promised to send a swift messenger should anything further of interest to us come to his knowledge within the next week or so.

Wild of eye he burst into the barber's shop.

"You remember selling me some patent hair restorer last week, you old swindler?" he roared, angrily.

"Swore it would restore my head to its original state, didn't you?"

"And didn't it?" asked the barber, as he calmly went on shaving another customer.

"Didn't it?" snorted the enraged man. "You obtained my money under false pretenses. Why, it even removed the little hair I had left, and now I'm as bald as the pavement!"

"Then there's no false pretense about it," said the barber. "I said it would restore your head to its original state, and you know, sir, most of us are born bald!"

A battalion was being instructed on "how to take a convoy through open country." One company was told off to represent horses, cows and wagons.

After a short halt the advance order was given and the convoy moved on—all except one man who did not budge.

"Here, you!" called the major; "why don't you advance?"

"I can't, sir."

"You can't? What do you mean?"

"I'm a wagon and I've got a wheel off."

"Charles, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "would it please you if I took more interest in sports?"

"Oh, it might be interesting if we could talk over the events and figure out the prospects."

"Well, I'm going to begin right now. Do you think the National league will win the world's series next fall?"

Yesterday was the crowning day of the camp meeting which has been in progress at Clear Lake this week. The interest throughout has been great, and a large number of people have remained during the evenings, tenting out in a primitive manner. The fact that Bishop Andrews was in attendance yesterday brought an additional attraction and caused an increase in the attendance, so that the numbers were swelled to about 1,500.

The many friends and admirers of Rev. E. D. Hunter, now of Madison, formerly of Court Street church, this city, will learn with interest that he has received a fresh laurel. At the recent commencement exercises of the East Tennessee Wesleyan university the degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred upon him by that institution, and he is henceforth and forever to be called Dr. Hunter. Some of our exchanges already speak of him as "the president-elect of Lawrence university, Appleton, Wis."

LITTLE TALKS ON TREES

THE AMERICAN FORESTRY ASSOCIATION

THE GINKGO

PERHAPS you know this beautiful tree as the maidenhair tree which name has been given to it because the leaves resemble those of the maidenhair fern. The ginkgo is used widely for ornamental and shade tree planting throughout the United States, being seen in the parks and on the streets of many eastern cities particularly. While the ginkgo is a native of China it came to the United States by the way of Europe and the first tree of this variety seems to have been planted in Philadelphia as long ago as 1784. China has now started on a reforestation campaign to prevent the great floods which have ravaged the country regularly and for this purpose desires tree seeds from America. In return has offered seeds of a number of trees now growing there and among them are those of the ginkgo. Many of these graceful trees are seen around the temples in Japan, the Buddhist priests having imported it there with their religion. It is a near relative of the yew. It seems to thrive particularly well in Japan where it grows to a height of 100 feet, although in this country it averages 50 to 60 feet.

The ginkgo is tapering and pyramidal in shape, the effect of the foliage and the almost upright branches causing it to resemble somewhat the Lombardy poplar which is conspicuously used as an ornamental tree in many places. The leaves of the ginkgo are light dull green and distinctly fan-shaped with a vein in the middle. In autumn the leaves turn a light yellow. In street planting it is best to use those trees which do not bear fruit as it has a disagreeable odor. The Chinese, however, used the fruit which is plumlike in size and shape; and they also roast the pits and eat them.

"The Old College Try"

By BILLY SUNDAY
(Famous Evangelist)

(Copyright, 1917, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

SOMEONE Busted the Ball one morning in Batting Practice at the Polo Grounds. It shot as if out of a French Seventy-five for the Rooters' Roost out in Far Left. It couldn't any more be Stopped than a Tank by a French.

A Lively Lad was being Tried out for the Job in That Garden, A rah-rah Rustler just off the Campus. With the Crack of the Bat, he wheeled and Made For the fence, like Howard Drew tearing off The Hundred. When he got there he Aviated four feet Off the Turf and Grabbed Nothing But the Atmosphere above his Cap. The Pill Balled into the Seats. He Never had a Chance.

The Sapient Birds of the Giants gave the Kid the Cackle. They would NEVER have Started. But McGraw, Wiser than Any of them, said:

"That's the Eye, Young Fellow—The Old College Try!"

And ever since then, when an Ambitious Athlete goes after a Hard One, the Giants call it "The Old College Try."

"They Miss Most of them, don't they, Mac?" somebody asked him. "Yes," answered the Caggy Chief—"but it would Jolt You to see how Many they Grab!"

JEKYLL—HYDE.

New York—In the arrest of August Northrup, a milk wagon driver, the Flatbush police believe they have captured a real-life Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. Northrup has been known to the housewives of Flatbush as a milk man, always delivering his "extras" called for in the little slips of paper outside the door. But for some time expensive rugs in the hallways of Flatbush apartment houses where Northrup delivers milk, have been disappearing. Patrolman Duffy, after sleuthing on the case for some time, finally caught Northrup with a bundle of rugs in his milk wagon.

COURSE IN MANNERS

AT BROOKLYN SCHOOL

New York—A course in manners, public and private, has been added to the curriculum of the girls' high school in Brooklyn. According to Miss William Foster, the action was necessary because the girls failed to observe the civilities of life according to Anglo-Saxon traditions. Placards have been posted about the halls of the school with simple lessons in deportment, lectures are given which delve more deeply into the subject, and once a month a day is set aside in which the pupils put into practice all of the rules of conduct prescribed by the teachers.

WANT LACE PROTECTION
Nottingham, Eng.—Lace manufacturers of this city have united to prevent the British market being flooded with laces, nets, curtains and embroideries made in France. They point out that the factories of Calais, Lyons and St. Quentin use machines made in Nottingham and want a ten year-year embargo placed upon the exportation of such machinery.

FOLLOW AMERICAN PLAN.

Toronto, Ont.—As a result of the success of the stock raising movement among school children of the United States the Ontario agricultural department is organizing many Boys' and Girls' Live Stock clubs. These are expected to result in a large increase in the available supply of sheep, calves and pigs.

"EGG-FACE" WINS JOBS

London—Square jaws are at a discount and "egg-faced" salesmen are in demand in England as a result of disclosures at the Sales Managers' Association here by a phenologist. "Square-jawed men lack imagination," the expert declared. "Round faced men are not to be relied on, but egg-faced men have forethought, ideals and initiative."

CITY LEAGUE LOOKS LIKE A SURE THING

By George McManus.

EIGHT NINES MAY PLAY SATURDAY

A city baseball league of eight teams looks like a sure thing as a result of the first meeting of industrial plant representatives at the Y. M. C. A. last evening at which plans for the season were gone over and eligibility rules discussed. It was decided to hold another meeting at the Y. Monday night at 7:30 when a schedule will be made out and final plans adopted. It is hoped that every plant will be represented at that time. Six teams or industrial institutions were represented last night: Janesville Products, Parker Pen, Hough Shado, Barb Wire, Gazette and All-Stars. Three more teams which are well organized, although they were not at the meeting last night, are certain to enter the league. They are the Rails, Woolen Mills, and Samson Tractor. This makes a total of nine prospective teams but as there is a possibility of one of the teams dropping out this will improve matters.

Plan 14 Games
Here's the dope as worked out last night—Two diamonds will be secured, the fair grounds and Samson, each team will play 14 games; double-headers will be played every Saturday afternoon with single games every Wednesday evening each team playing three times a week.

The matter of "ringing" involved considerable discussion. Some were for limiting members of the team to only those actually employed in the plant while others thought outside men might play if they were not part of the battery. This was the agreement which was finally reached—All seven men on each team must be employed by the plant which it represents, either pitcher or catcher can be secured from outside the plant, but not both.

The matter of securing uniforms was left to each team to decide for itself.

Employers' Help Needed
The start has been made. Things look bright but it is up to the prospective members of the teams to get busy and talk it up all the time. Each plant should get a manager and captain at once and should endeavor to secure the cooperation, financial if possible, of their employers. Although expenses will be light it will take some money to make the league a success.

The league fully merits the support of every factory in the city. When it is taken into consideration that the big plant of the city, which all the big plants of the country will be represented in going to go a long way toward promoting interest.

Interest Is Growing
Industrial participation in all kinds of athletics is growing like a weed, and it is only a question of a few years when industrial plant sports will be on the same plane as colleges and universities. The big athletic meet at Gary, Ind., July 4, which all the big plants of the country will be represented in going to go a long way toward promoting interest.

It means quick action if the first games are to be played next Saturday as planned. With the proper sort of spirit and plenty of pep the league can be put across big.

Anyone wishing to make suggestions should communicate with W. P. Craig, physical director at the Y. M. C. A., or the editor of the Gazette. But whatever happens, let's have a good turnout at the meeting at the Y. Monday night at 7:30.

JUNIOR STARS WILL MEET WOLVES SUNDAY

The Junior All-Stars will play the Wolves for the junior championship of the city Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at the Monterey diamond. This will be the last game between these two teams if the Wolves are defeated.

The All Stars may well be proud of the record which they have made this season. They have won 11 out of 14 games and are positive that they will win the championship. The winner of this game will play Fox Hall for the championship and this promises to be a hard fought game as Fox Hall defeated the Junior All Stars a short time ago by a score of 16 to 11.

Ernie Krueger drove the ball over the left field fence at Forbes field recently. It was the first time in two seasons that the feat was accomplished. In 1917 Rogers Hornsby and Bill Hinchman turned the trick.

It makes no difference whether Buck Weaver is played at short or at third base. He stars in either position.

GLORIOUS BATTLE AT KOSHKONONG, SUNDAY

There will be one grand and glorious time out at Charley Burr, Koshkonong, tomorrow afternoon, when the All-Stars will take on the Milton Junction Trojans for the first time this year. Rivalry is intense between these two old foes and a hot battle is bound to result.

The Trojans have loaded up for the occasion in hopes of wiping out the two defeats handed them by the Stars last year. Either Miller, Austin, Marague (maybe all of them) will pitch for the Junction gang, with L. Manogue behind the bat.

Bick will probably start the game on the mound for the Stars. Several changes have been made in the batting order, the most important of which is the shifting of Marko to clean-up position. The batting order follows: Fullman, ss; Graesslin, 3b; Crowley-Wall, c; Marko, 1b; McGinnley, 2b; Babcock, lf; Graf, cf; Zahn, rf; Bick-Hager, p.

The Stars will leave Bick's store in Monterey at 11:15 tomorrow morning. The Stars' schedule until July 6:
June 29—Open.
July 4—Beloit Colored Giants, here.
July 6—Beloit Browns, here.

Postal Men to Meet.
Green Bay—The Wisconsin Association of Supervisory Postoffice Employees will hold its annual convention in Green Bay Friday and Saturday. Business meetings will be held in the federal court room in the postoffice building. About 50 workers are expected to attend the convention. Members of this organization are assistant postmasters and superintendents of departments, such as mail, finance and stations.

RUTH'S SLUGGING IS SENSATION OF AMERICAN LEAGUE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Chicago, June 21.—Babe Ruth, Boston's slugging pitcher and outfielder, is beginning to make things hum in the American League, according to averages released today and which include games of last Wednesday. Ruth, who divides his time between the mound and the outfield, has batted himself from twenty-third place last week to eighth place among the players who have participated in 20 or more games. He boosted his mark from .284 to .310. Roger Peckinbaugh, New York, also is showing improvement with the willow and has climbed from ninth to second place, four points behind Tyrus Cobb, who continues to set the pace with an average of .358.

Ruth not only advanced among the hitters, but cracked out his fifth home run, thereby breaking the triple tie with Slater, St. Louis and Roth, Philadelphia. Peckinbaugh, besides his showing in batting, has worked himself into a tie with Slater for scoring honors. Each has registered 32 tallies. Cobb and Weaver, Chicago, are close behind with 31 runs each. Cobb's speed in the past week has placed him in a tie with Roth for total base honors, with 50 each.

Chapman, Cleveland, increased his lead among the sacrifice hitters by having 22 to his credit, breaking the tie which he and Vitt, Boston, were in last week.

JANES WILL FIGHT TO COP BOTH GAMES OF WEEK-END BILL

Full of the old fight that wins ball games the Janes took the field at the fair grounds early this afternoon prepared to give the Telling All Stars of Milwaukee the battle of their lives. The game was scheduled to start at 3:30 with Bill Lathrop, former White Sox slasher, on the mound for the home nine and Tommie Croake behind the rubber. The battery for the invaders announced today by Manager Gavin was: Pomerene and Kuehn. Win or lose, the Janes will trot out on the diamond again tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock to mingle in nine rounds of combat with the Rockford Cardinals, a team which claims to have won every game this year. The Janes will have their new pitcher, Sam Longquist, on the slab so it looks like a hot day for Rockford but dope may be upset.

The home team's line-up will be the same tomorrow with the exception of left field where Sachs, the Beloit Fairy, will perform in Vinay's absence. Here is the line-up for the big double bill:
Dopp rf, Pierce ss, Kakuske cf, Miller 3b, Sachs lf, Vinay, lf, Kierheiser 1b, Bond 2b, Croake c, Lathrop, Longquist, Bick, p.

SPORT SNAP-SHOTS

BY JACK KEENE.

When Miller Huggins was making his fight last winter to retain title to the services of Pitcher Jack Quinn, for whom the Chicago White Sox were battling, many believed that the Yank manager was making a mountain of a mole hill.

"Why make so much of a fuss about a player who had been back in the minors for four years, after spending several seasons in the majors and the Federal league?" was the argument advanced. "Huggins should get some young pitcher if he expects to get anyplace with the Yankees".

With the season close to two months old, and the Yankees bumping along in second place, making a real fight for the leadership, it can be said that Huggins' battle has been justified. If Quinn should do nothing from now on to the close of the season it could hardly be said that he was not worth the battle that was made for his services. Furthermore, the fact must not be overlooked that if Quinn had not been taken by the Yankees he would be pitching today for the Chicago White Sox, the club that is showing the way in the American league pennant race.

Just add Quinn to the Chicago staff and there is little doubt as to where the pennant would be flying in another year, or as to the club that would be the junior league's entry in the next world's series. Jack Quinn, added to the Sox as they stand today, would just about make the pennant a certainty for the Red Sox.

Quinn's victory over the Tigers at the Polo grounds recently was his sixth of the current season. Besides the six games which ended in his favor, Quinn delivered four brilliant pitching efforts which failed to bring him success. He was defeated by the White Sox by the score of 1 to 0 in a game in which he allowed the league leaders only four hits, and he lost another game to St. Louis in which he yielded five hits in ten innings, the final score being 2 to 1. These are the only defeats charged against Quinn this season.

Two other games, which he neither won nor lost, showed pitching of high quality. In his first start of the season on April 28, Quinn held the Mackmen to two runs in eight innings and was taken out in New York's half of the eighth for a pinch hitter. The Yanks tied up the game in their half of the eighth and it went to the twelfth inning before Huggins' team finally got to verdict. On May 11, Quinn blanked the Senators for twelve innings at the Polo grounds, but the Yankees could not score on Walter Johnson and the game ended with a score 0-0.

In the first eleven games in which Quinn participated, he was yanked only once. That was at Shibe park on June 2. With the score of 4 to 3 in favor of New York, Joe Dugan opened the home half of the sixth inning with a home run into the left field bleachers and Huggins decided to try another pitcher. It was only the fifth hit off Quinn, but he had given three passes and appeared to be affected by the extreme heat of that day. In the other two games which Quinn failed to finish he was taken out for a pinch hitter.

Art and Economy in Home Building

No. 10: Plan Submitted by Mann & Gatling, Architects, Memphis, Tenn.

The house illustrated here is different from the ordinary house in many respects. The first floor plan is along the colonial type, having the main stair hall separating the large living room and dining room. One of the main features of this house is that each bedroom may have a separate sleeping porch. This is made possible by a sliding partition which divides the two large sleeping porches into four smaller ones. In the attic is a large room 15x24 feet, which may be used either as a playroom for the children or billiard room. Every convenience that goes into making the modern up-to-date home is to be found in this house.

Any of the firms represented on this page will be pleased to assist you in every way possible in their line, to help you with your building problem. They are all reliable firms and can be depended upon.

Watch for this page next week Saturday.
